Dear MME:

I am responsible for teaching resident physicians in family medicine how to think about what their lives will look like when they are practicing physicians. One important aspect of this is how they will manage their own personal finances. MME was able to present them with important financial planning education and money management advice.

My residents have to learn a lot of different things, and they very much appreciate content that is relevant and accessible. Aaron Leland was able to provide them with a useful foundation of information, as well as the opportunity for one on one discussions about individual circumstances. They appreciated his clear communication style and the fact that they were not caught in the middle of a sales pitch.

We look forward to working with Aaron and MME again in the future.

Sincerely,

Carla Ainsworth, MD, MPH
